The Tale of a Town – Canada is a nationwide theatre and media initiative aiming to capture the collective community memory of Canada's main streets, one story at a time. This cultural project has been touring the country, visiting small towns and big cities alike, collecting oral histories through interviews with independent business owners, local heroes, community stakeholders, and neighbourhood residents. After visiting every province and territory, the project turns its attention to Canada's longest main street this summer with its Highway 11 project – the next stop is here in Willowdale at the historic Gibson House Museum, a project funded by the Toronto Arts Council – Animating Historic Sites programme! The Tale of a Town brings the storymobile (mobile recording studio) to conduct interviews between June 21 and July 1 about our memories of Willowdale. Do you have a story to tell? See the bulletin board for more details.

A Service of Celebration of New Ministry for Mark is scheduled for Thursday, September 7 at 7:00 p.m. at St. Paul, Uxbridge. More information will be available over the summer.

Gay Pride: A For All of Us

June was designated Gay Pride Month in Toronto by Mayor John Tory with him raising the Rainbow Flag at City Hall on June 1. Festivities will conclude on Sunday, June 25 with the Toronto Gay Pride Parade. We all have much to be proud of in Toronto, Ontario, and Canada when it comes to LGBT rights. At one time in the 20th century, homosexuality was considered criminal behaviour, with individuals being charged with gross indecency and even portrayed as sex offenders, being subject to life in prison. Even after criminalisation was removed, discrimination continued in social, employment, and financial areas of our lives, as well as the right to marry.

We all have a lot to be proud of in the area of LGBT rights now. Canada is seen as one of the gay-friendliest countries in the world. In 1995 the Supreme Court of Canada ruled that sexual orientation was implicitly covered in our existing Charter of Rights and Freedoms, and in 2001, the first ever same-sex marriages in the world took place in a church right here in Toronto. An excellent example of thinking globally, but acting locally, that proud and daring act has had a huge effect on millions of people around the world. In our own church, Anglicans took the first step in allowing same-sex marriages last July, and we have had at least three same-sex marriages in our own diocese since then.

We can be especially proud of our stance on LGBT rights in Canada when we see gay men being rounded up and imprisoned in concentration camps and likely killed in Chechnya, gay men being thrown off buildings in the Middle East, and discrimination in Africa, among other places. In Sudan, southern Somalia, and northern Nigeria homosexuality is punishable by death. In Uganda, Tanzania, and Sierra Leone, offenders can receive life imprisonment for homosexual acts. In addition to criminalising homosexuality, Nigeria has enacted legislation that would make it illegal for heterosexual family members, allies, and friends of LGBT to even be supportive.

The theme this year for Toronto's Gay Pride Month is . This sign makes reference to the diversity of people and voices recognised in LGBT people, as well as their allies. Adding new voices, understanding different cultures, and being open to sharing those experiences adds to our own experience. There is a song by Patty Larkin called "The Thread of Life," which reminds us to "keep the hope alive, keep the love alive, we are all a part of the Thread of Life." In Canada, and specifically Toronto, that thread has been woven into a rich tapestry, full of colour and texture, and for that we should all be grateful. Thanks be to God that we are fortunate enough to live in such an enlightened time and place. We should all stand proud.
